Urish Group Launches to Help Clients Navigate Growth, Complexity, and Pittsburgh's Next Era of Innovation

PITTSBURGH, PA — Marking 50 years of growth and client service, Urish Popeck today announced the launch of the Urish Group — a unified network of companies bringing together accounting, wealth management, technology, cybersecurity, staffing, and strategic advisory expertise under one collaborative vision.

The launch reflects the firm's continued evolution from a traditional accounting practice into a broader advisory organization built to help businesses and individuals solve increasingly complex financial, operational, and strategic challenges.

At the same time, firm leaders say the Urish Group's value extends beyond professional services alone. Through decades of relationships across Pittsburgh's business, financial, technology, healthcare, manufacturing, and entrepreneurial communities, the organization has increasingly become a connector between clients and the people, ideas, and opportunities shaping the region's future.

The announcement was made during the firm's 50th anniversary celebration at Four Gateway Center, where business leaders, entrepreneurs, innovators, and longtime clients gathered to celebrate both the company's history and Pittsburgh's emergence as a center for innovation in artificial intelligence, robotics, energy, healthcare, cybersecurity, and advanced manufacturing.

"We have had the privilege of being at the center of many exciting developments happening across this region," Founding and Managing Partner Ken Urish said during the event. "As trusted advisors, our job is not only to be a solutions provider, but also to be a connector of people, ideas, and opportunities, and to help businesses evolve and thrive."

Throughout the event, the firm highlighted companies and leaders helping drive Pittsburgh's next wave of economic growth, including organizations working in aerospace engineering, artificial intelligence, advanced manufacturing, healthcare innovation, and cybersecurity.

The Urish Group includes Urish Popeck accounting and advisory services; Steel Tower Investments wealth management; Keystone Staffing; and technology and cybersecurity firms Catalyst and Simile Data, along with a growing network of strategic affiliates and advisors.

"Each new affiliation came from listening carefully to what our clients needed and finding ways to help them succeed in a changing world," Urish said.

Firm leaders say the integrated structure allows clients to benefit from more coordinated expertise across financial strategy, tax planning, wealth management, operations, technology, talent, and risk management — areas that increasingly intersect as businesses and individuals navigate growth and change.

The organization also sees Pittsburgh’s transformation as central to its future and to its clients’ opportunities.

“This city has always been resilient, and today it’s becoming vibrant,” Urish said during the celebration. “It’s a center of innovation that is helping shape the future of America.”

As Pittsburgh continues to evolve, the Urish Group aims to help clients remain connected to the people, industries, and opportunities driving that momentum — while continuing the relationship-focused approach that has defined the firm for five decades.
